A BOY DIED LAST NIGHT

A BOY died last night. It doesn't make much difference now about his name. The important thing is that he died, in poignant and awful loneliness, out somewhere on a waste of sand, out in a starless silence, ten thousand miles from home.

"Missing in action," read an obscure line in this morning's communique. That was all. Now he lies there, crumpled beside the twisted wreckage that yesterday was his plane, riding high in the sunlit heavens. The fine head and the shining face and the broad shoulders remain only in a picture that looks out upon a quiet living-room on a shaded street an eternity away.

Last night, in those agonizing hours of unspeakable isolation, he went through a thousand deaths without the one thing that might have helped a little—the sound of a familiar voice, the pat of a friendly hand. Many people died last night in their beds at home, surrounded by those who cared. Last night he died in utter desolation, in an unimaginable loneliness.

"The pain was terrible enough. But then there had to be that dreadful burden of thought in those endless last hours. Mom and Pop. The flowers blooming again in the back yard. The good old roadster in the driveway. That last sweetheart kiss at the station. Those dances last summer. That half-finished letter in his blouse. All those plans for the future. Couldn't somebody find him please? The wracking pain again.

"Too much for you, all this? But it really happened last night, just like that. If people could only understand it, if they would just grind deep into their thinking that stark, terrible reality of it, every petty, selfish interest would be swept away. They would sacrifice anything and everything just to make themselves worthy of that boy.

"If people who have basked and prospered and walked secure in a land that has felt no more than the shock of a Fourth of July firecracker since 1865 would understand about this boy they would rise up and demand that their Government take anything, exactly everything needed, make them walk, blackout every city, take away every last penny of profit, render uncertain every commonplace comfort and easy security, just to avenge that boy.

"He died last night, you see. There's no way to get around that."—From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

IS CHRIST MY KING?

THE Feast of Christ the King this year takes on an unusual significance. We pray daily in the "Our Father," asking God: "Thy kingdom come." If we look about the world today, we have a shocking realization that God's kingdom has certainly not been established in the hearts of men. But that's where it should be established, for God's kingdom is a spiritual one. If God's kingdom were established universally, we would not have the appalling world conditions that we are facing.

Christ came to this world as a king, by His own admission and declaration. He came to establish His reign among men. Nineteen hundred years since He came, and many still reject Him. They obdurately and persistently seek to establish their own reign, their own teachings, their own materialistic ideologies. These theories and principles are paganistic. They exclude God. The soul has no consideration. The teachings of Christ are discarded. Almighty God has permitted men to set up their own kingdoms. The results are tearing the world asunder today. Brutality, greed, lust for power, robbing of man's rights, crushing of religion, assaults upon man's inherent dignity as God's creature—all of these prevail in the kingdoms that men have set up, where God is rigidly excluded.

What a startling contrast we find in the kingdom of Christ! What a difference if Christ were really the king of mankind! All that is most inspiring and uplifting, all that is virtuous and kind, all that is becoming to God's kingdom that we pray for daily, that we beg God to spread in the world.

Just so long as Christ does not rule the hearts of men, just so long as His reign is not established in each of us individually, we shall have woe and misery. These points are worth thinking about this Sunday, when we honor Christ the King, but we might ask our own selves first: To just what extent is Christ my King?—Catholic Action of the South, Thursday, October 22, 1942.

MAKE IT EASIER

WE have always felt that there has been too much said and done by the civilian population in an attempt to direct the military policies of the Country. It is possible to find some of the best Generals and some of the greatest Admirals of the Nation on the street corners of every City, Town and Village. We feel that things military, however, should be left entirely to the men who have received this high technical training, so necessary for a good military man, and which has been given to the officers commanding our forces. Many times countries have turned victory into defeat through the usurpation of authority by the civilian population, in attempting to force their opinions upon the military leaders of their Nation.

This should not be, and we are not attempting to express any military views, but purely a humane point of view; and surely, there should be a human side, even in war.

The parents of the Boys in the armed service of their Country should receive a little consideration. These parents are fighting the battles over and over again in their minds. Their sons are overseas. They are engaged in conflict. Some three or four months later, they are reported missing. These parents are troubled by the thought, "Is my child dead?"

Would it not be far better for the War or Navy Department to report the casualties as they occur, not to the Nation, but to the parents or nearest of kin of those reported lost. As far as we can see, no harm could be done by this procedure.

Many a heart of the parents of this Nation will be saddened before this conflict is ended. But we believe it is far better to tell them definitely that their son is dead, rather than to beat around the bush and say, "Your son is missing in action." It would be far better that a mistake be made in reporting the death, with a possibility of later having to change the report to show the boy alive, than to say that he is missing in action; leaving the parents to face a life of torture, suffering mental anguish, hoping and praying for the return of their son, who probably lies in a watery grave in the bottom of the ocean, or whose body may have been blown to bits by the explosion of a bomb, or some other implement of war.

The military authorities, who are parents themselves, know how you feel when one of your children is sick. How you pace the floor, and how you worry about his condition until such time as your doctor advises you that he is out of danger. They should picture in their minds how the parents of this Nation feel, when they receive a report that their child is missing in action, and then hear no more.

Tell them the truth, point blank. They expect it of you. They have girded themselves to receive the worst news, when their boy enters the service, and in the end, if you will tell them the actual facts, they will be saddened, but happy in the thought that their son gave his life for his Country, so that the men and women of this Great Nation might continue to enjoy that Liberty and that Freedom which we so deeply cherish.

These are the views and thoughts of the Editor of a small country newspaper, the father of a large family. These sentiments may, or may not, be read, even locally; however, it is still our hope, that these same thoughts may continue to be expressed by publications with influence, so that they may be brought more forcibly to the attention of the proper authorities, in order that much mental anguish and unhappiness may be removed from this Nation, and sorrow, with a spirit of pride, may take its place instead.

TRUE AMERICAN SPIRIT

HANCOCK County has been going right along in its Scrap Salvage Campaign, but if you grown folks need inspiration to make this drive a success, you need only to look to your own children for it. They are setting an example of tireless effort and tenacity of purpose that all might well follow, and they have a sincere and wholesome sense of realism that is not to be excelled.

If you will just stop long enough to fathom that dauntless look in their eyes and eagerness of expression, as they trek with every describable type of conveyance in the direction of the scrap pile, you will know that they are thinking: "Brother Johnny will get a million Japs with this load, I bet, 'cause, boy, it's really heavy," and "if I were just a little bigger, I could be there to help him." Such are the many sentiments of love and admiration for their dear ones in service, and patriotic feeling for country, that race through their minds and fill their hearts.

Their is the real sacrifice, as they give up their favorite metal toys, slightly used but, nevertheless, deeply cherished, and representing their most prized possessions. There might be a sign of a tear at parting, but it is hastily brushed away and their young hearts swell with pride, in feeling that they are able to do so much for big brother and for their country. Even their anxiously awaited holidays, and that ball game they were going to enjoy so much, are gladly given up, to spend their time in an endless search for all the available scrap material that is going to help win the war.

There is no doubt in their young minds that we will win the war, because brother Johnny is in there fighting, and they are doing everything at home to help him. He just can't lose, and they intend to see to that.

All that we grown folks need to do now is to adopt a little of their enthusiasm and get in there and fight with them. They have shown us the way, and some real effort on our part in collecting scrap and doing the many other things that our hearts should tell us to do, will certainly help to bring this war to a hasty and victorious conclusion for the allies, for us and for our children, that they may not have worked and sacrificed in vain.

One thing about a democratic form of government: If you dislike the men in office you can run for their jobs.

There are a few communities in the United States that have not concluded that the nation is in the midst of a desperate fight for its existence.

Victory Tax

The Treasury Department has raised its estimates on the number of persons to be affected by the new five per cent Victory Tax on gross incomes provided for in the War Revenue Act of 1942. The latest figures indicate that approximately 49,800,000 persons will have to pay the levy on all income above $12.00 a week or $624.00 a year. The tax becomes effective January 1, 1943, and persons receiving salaries and wages will have it deducted by their employers from their pay checks. A person in business for himself will be allowed to deduct the expenses of producing his income in arriving at the figure subject to the Victory levy.

This is the first time that income taxes will be collected at the source. Employers will be required to give each employee a yearly statement covering collections and will transmit copies of the statements to the collectors of internal revenue to be used as basic Treasury records. Tax payers will not make returns for the Victory Tax until 1944 and there will be no reference to this tax on the regular income tax forms soon to be distributed for use in reporting 1942 incomes.

Under the Victory Tax Plan, 40 percent of the tax in the case of married persons, 2 per cent for single persons, and two per cent for each dependent, shall be returned to the taxpayer after the war. These credits may be allowed currently, however, if they are used for the payment of premiums on life insurance in force September 1, 1942, the payment of outstanding debts on the same date, and the purchase of United States obligations.

The lowering of exemptions for the regular income tax is expected to result in more than 35,000,000 returns on 1942 incomes, with probably 27,200,000 of these paying taxes. Only about 26,000,000 returns were made on 1941 incomes, and less than 17,000,000 individuals paid income taxes. It is estimated that the taxes put into effect by the 1942 Revenue Act will produce annually between $24,000,000,000 and $26,000,000,000.

Uncle Sam Buys Tires

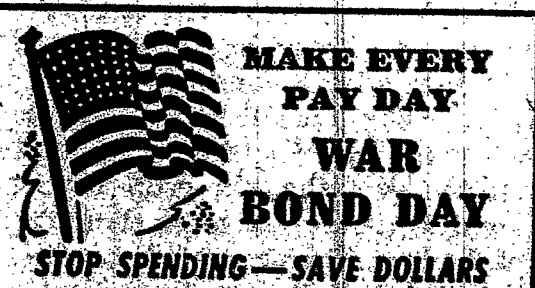

The largest tire sale in the Nation's history is now under way. Uncle Sam has called for every tire in excess of five for each car. He is paying, in cash or war stamps, from $1.50 to $11.15, depending on the size and condition of the tire. In the future, ration coupons will be issued to private cars only after the owner submits serial numbers of his tires and a certificate that he has no more. These tires are to be used strictly for military purposes. The maximum penalty for violation is a $10,000 fine or a 10-year prison sentence, or both.

Food

This winter's chief concern for uncounted millions of persons all over the world will be food. Next year the problem will be even greater. The Nazi boast that Germans will live well though the rest of Europe starve can only strengthen the determination of the allies to drive the invaders from the rich food lands that they have conquered. American agriculture is playing a vital part in the fight for freedom. We have sent almost two million pounds of grain and cereal products to the docks for dispatch to the United Nations, about a billion pounds of pork, nearly a billion pounds of fruits and vegetables, six hundred million lbs. of lard, and other food products in staggering amounts, including hundreds of thousands of pounds of concentrated vitamin products.

We are helping to feed our lease-lend allies as a primary measure in winning the war. We give our fighting men the best possible diet for the same purpose. Even such a comparatively minor item as frozen foods for our armed forces runs to huge amounts—six hundred thousand and pounds of frozen fruits and vegetables a month.

These unprecedented demands on our food stores, together with a national income of $116,000,000,000 a year, account for the strict controls which have had to be placed on food prices.

WITH THE FISHERMEN AND OTHER SPORTS

By KANCHU KETCHEM

FROM all indications hunting this season will be good. With the cool spell of the past week, many ducks have been seen in this section. The duck season will open Monday, November 2nd.

After the rains of Sunday and the cool spell following the weather was ideal for trolling. Some good catches were reported.

Jack Ladner was up town Tuesday displaying some of the speckled beauties he caught that day.

Rawls Lee of Leetown visited at Bayou LaCrosse one day last week for some fishing. He returned home with a nice bunch of assorted trout and perch.

Mr. C. Bateman and wife came over for a day's fishing and were rewarded by a catch of a dozen nice black bass.

Seymour Necaise caught twenty-five nice speckles at the mouth of Bayou LaCrosse.

Several catches of good size green trout have been reported this past week end. They were striking nicely in Jordan River and Bayou LaCrosse. They are all of good size.

Spending the week end on a camp-trip at Viscoe's Lake were Harold Bragg, A. J. Thomas and Red Kimmel. They spent the time hunting squirrels and rabbits. The party bagged eight squirrels. "Red" said the outing was great but the eats—not so hot.

K. S. Elliott of Monroe, La., spent Tuesday fishing up Jordan river. Mr. Elliott started trolling for speckles but he said the Black Bass (Green trout to us down here) just wouldn't let him alone—he caught several nice ones, the largest weighing three pounds. "Kenny" is an experienced fly fisherman and likes to tell of the "big" one he gets up home. Trolling for the first time he caught five speckles, and promises to return soon for another trial for the big ones.

Hancock County Library Sponsors Book Review

The Hancock County Library Board gave the book loving public a rare treat on Tuesday when they presented Mrs. Kenneth Knoblock in a review of "The Last Time I Saw Paris" by Elliot Paul.

The book which is timely is divided into three parts—Postwar 20's, Pre-war 30's and the death of a nation and is written in Elliot Paul's delightful style. Mrs. Knoblock's perfect French pronunciation and ultra-perfect English gave a charm to the book which another reviewer might have missed. The element of time which is always evident brought the review to a close earlier than her audience desired but the review was a rare treat and one which will be remembered by those fortunate enough to hear it.

Band Notes

The band made its first appearance this year at the Moss Point—Saint Stanislaus game last Friday. About fifteen new members paraded for the first time in Saint Stanislaus uniforms.

Much credit must be given to the three drum majors who made their debut as leaders of the Rockachaw band. Frank Perrin acted as head drum major whereas Francis Fabacher and Rodney Ranson exhibited the twirling. These youngsters showed great possibilities.

We must not overlook the fine showing made by the little lads from the fifth and sixth grades. These little fellows performed for the first time with the band. Any one who has had experience with a marching band knows that the front rank has the greatest responsibilities. The exactness with which the front rank of the band led the maneuvers last Friday was remarkable. The formation of the letter M on the Moss Point side was completed in less than fifteen seconds. Everything is being done to obtain uniforms for the new members. It is hoped that in the near future the uniform factory will be able to furnish the number of uniforms needed to outfit all the little fellows who have been admitted to the band.

Funeral Services For Judge Taylor Held Tuesday 27, at Gulfport

Funeral services for Judge Lawrence Taylor, 68, municipal judge and civilian defense co-ordinator, who died suddenly early Sunday morning at his home in Gulfport, were held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Henry T. Brookshire, pastor, and the Rev. P. S. Dodge, pastor of the Grace Memorial Baptist Church officiated. Interment was in Evergreen Cemetery with Masonic rites at the grave. The body remained in state at the church for two hours preceding the services.

Born in Union, Miss., December 21, 1873, Judge Taylor came to Gulfport in 1901 from Hickory, Miss., and had been engaged in law practice since that time.

He was president of the Harrison County Bar Association, and had served as municipal judge for about a year, presiding at Saturday's court session. As co-ordinator, he was associated with the organization and functioning of the Gulfport Civilian Defense groups.

Mr. Taylor was active in church, civic and fraternal affairs. He was a lifetime deacon and chairman of the board of deacons of the First Baptist Church; organizer and first president of the Gulfport Kiwanis Club; member of the Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite of Masonry; member and past president of the Chamber of Commerce; and several other clubs and fraternities.

Mr. Taylor is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Alice Drane Taylor, Gulfport; a son, F. S. Taylor, Gulfport; three daughters, Mrs. Walter Washington of Atlanta, Mrs. D. B. Shroods of Gulfport and Miss Susan Taylor of Washington; two brothers, five sisters and seven grandchildren.

He is well known in Bay St. Louis, having practiced law in the Courts of Hancock County for a number of years.

CROSBY, ASTAIRE SONG-DANCE TEAM IN "HOLIDAY INN"

To Be Shown at A. & G. Theater, Sunday and Monday.

A combination of song-and-dance talent to make any movie fan sit up and take notice, will be on the screen at the A. & G. Theater when Paramount brings Irving Berlin's long-awaited "Holiday Inn" to town next Sunday and Monday with stars Bing Crosby and Fred Astaire topping the players.

Casting Hollywood's most popular warbler and hooper together seems to be a stroke of showmanship genius. Adding Irving Berlin's music—11 new hit songs and two old ones, two lovely-to-look-at singing and dancing girls, Marjorie Reynolds and Virginia Dale, plus a delightful story—and you have a silver platter of entertainment the like of which isn't dished out every day.

There's "Let's Start the New Year Right," which is sung on New Year's Eve; "White Christmas" for the festive close of the year; "Be Careful It's My Heart" written for Valentine's Day; "Avalanche" in celebration of Lincoln's Birthday; "I Can't Tell a Lie" for Washington's Birthday; "Song of Freedom" and "Let's Say It With Firecrackers" for the 4th of July; "Plenty To Be Thankful For" in celebration of Thanksgiving Day. Then, for good measure, you'll hear Irving Berlin's "Happy Holiday," "I'll Capture Your Heart Singing," "You're Easy to Dance With." There are also two old Irving Berlin favorites in "Holiday Inn"—"Lazy" and "Easter Parade" the latter sung on Easter Sunday.

"Holiday Inn" produced and directed by Mark Sandrich, who directed most of Astaire's great dance musicals, and Jack Benny's hits, promises to be movie diversion on a grand and melodic scale. With Crosby singing Irving Berlin songs, and Astaire dancing with two new beauties, all in celebration of America's fifteen national holidays.

HOME Agent Notes

Representatives of two Home Demonstrations met Monday to plan the demonstrations they thought would be best suited to their needs in the following club year. The following demonstrations are the ones selected.

November 1942—Meat, canning, either beef, pork or poultry.
December 1942—Hot beds, cold frames and early garden plants.
January 1943—Food Substitutes in the good diet.
February 1943—Poultry Production including Feeding and Care.
April 1943—Spring care of Fruit Trees for greater production.
May 1943—Simple repairing of Electrical Equipment or Cleaning and protection of Clothes from Moths.
June 1943—Victory Garden Show.
July 1943—Canning Demonstrations on food requested by club—or Rooting Soil Wood Cuttings.
August 1943—School Clothing Selection and Construction or Lunch Boxes—Packing and New Recipes.
September 1943—Fall Gardens and Club Canned Goods Show.

The Council agreed that each club should learn a new game that the family could play each meeting in addition to the demonstrations. It was felt that this would be interesting at families would have less means of finding recreation outside the home.

Save Leaves

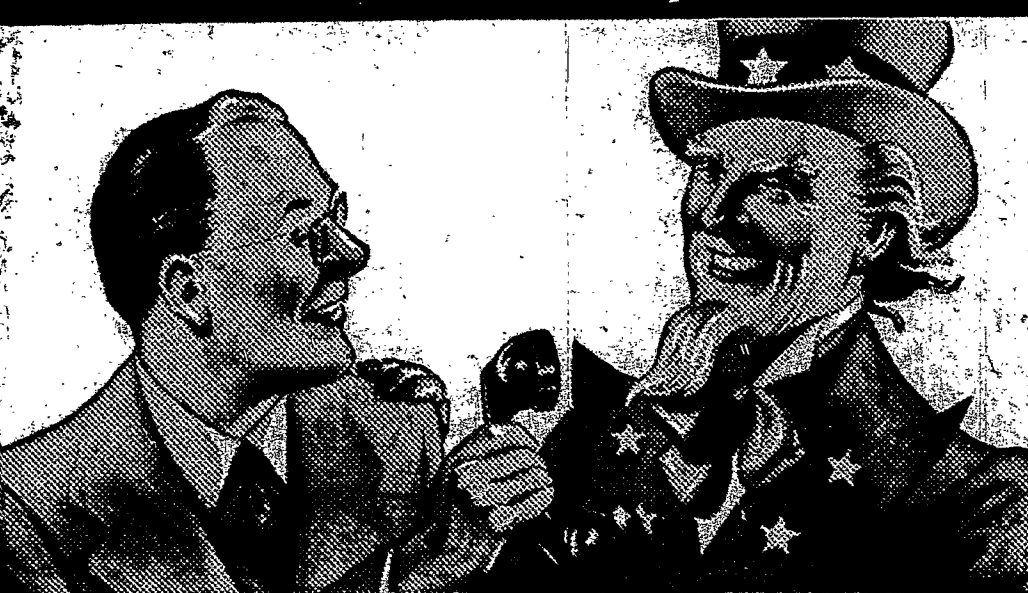

Bonfires are a waste of valuable plant food, and until the war is over there is urgent need of getting full value from wastes, which can, in part, take the place of some of the nitrogen fertilizer materials now going into explosives. So, instead of being raked into a pile and burned, the leaves should go into a compost heap, be kept moist, and be turned occasionally until the material is well enough rotted for use. Almost any organic materials that will decay make fair substitutes for fertilizer.

Food Will Win, Lack of Food Can Lose the War

From the Walt Disney film, "Food Will Win the War," we learn: "If all our wheat were made into flour, it would snow under a Nazi panzer army. Baked into pyramids placed a mile apart, it would stretch the length of the Suez Canal. Made into spaghetti, it would knit a sweater to fit the earth. "All our eggs fried into one huge egg would cover the United States and Canada. Our fats and oils would make a fat lady big enough to black out Berlin, and heavier than 100 superdreadnaughts. "All our corn made into one ear would make a bridge from London to the Black Sea. Our soybeans, ground into flour, would fill Moscow's Red Square. Our vegetables canned, would cover the Great Wall of China. Our potatoes would stack up twice as high as the Rock of Gibraltar. Our tomatoes would tower over the Matterhorn."

Notwithstanding, we may lose the battle of production next year unless we plan carefully and work on the home front longer and harder than we have ever worked. Plan more intelligently and work much harder.

The Telephone is VITAL to the Communication Needs of this "War Busy" Nation

"You FIRST... Uncle Sam!"

This is the kind of spirit we all must show if we are to keep vital long distance telephone lines clear for urgent war calls. Never before have long distance lines been so busy and played so vital a role in our nation's history.

But war calls are not the only calls. Calls by civilians and non-war businesses—calls that are not always necessary—are also increasing. The result is crowding of long distance lines and equipment, threatening war calls with serious delays.

YOU can help avert this threat to vital war communications by beginning now to voluntarily ration your use of long distance. There is urgent need now for a special effort to avoid making "long haul" calls. The greater the distance you talk the greater the possibility of delaying vital war calls, because the "long haul" lines are the most heavily crowded with war business.

MRS. A. F. FOURNIER RE-ELECTED MEMBER EXECUTIVE BOARD

Of Kings Daughters And Sons at Convention Held At Allison Wells

At the Forty-second convention of the Mississippi branch of the Kings Daughters and Sons, held in Allison Wells, near Canton, last week, Mrs. A. F. Fournier, president of the local branch, was re-elected a member of the Executive Board for the coming year.

Delegates to the convention from the Bay St. Louis circle were Mrs. Fournier and the Misses Hilda and Elsa Spurl.

The convention was held in historic Allison Wells Hotel, which is operated by Mr. and Mrs. John Fontaine, present owners, this quaint hostelry having been in their family for four generations.

The convention was presided over by Mrs. W. R. Montgomery, state president of the Kings Daughters and Sons, who was re-elected to the presidency, and the convention and banquet on the first night were in honor of four past presidents, Mrs. E. Darden, Mrs. S. R. Geise, Mrs. J. W. Woolwine and Mrs. A. F. Fournier, all of whom addressed those attending the banquet.

In the memorial service for deceased members, the names of the late Mr. Charles G. Moreau, the late Mr. Charles A. Breath and the late Edmund F. Fahey were paid special tribute for their assistance to the local branch of the organization and the hospital here.

At the banquet on the second day of the convention, Mayor Charles Harris of Canton, was toastmaster, and Mrs. J. W. Woolwine, a past president who had been attending a convention in Kansas City, Mo., arrived by plane at six o'clock in Allison Wells and gave an excellent address entitled "I'm From Missouri."

Due to the uncertainty of conditions, the meeting adjourned without any specific arrangements or date for the next convention.

The report of the Bay St. Louis circle received loud applause and was exceptional, and we publish it herewith as follows:

The Bay St. Louis circle of the Kings Daughters and Sons has had a fuller program this year than usual owing to the war situation. Besides our very fine work in the Hospital, a report of which follows, we have had a Chest Clinic under the auspices of the Public Health Department with Dr. C. M. Shipp in charge.

At a Blood Plasma Clinic, the first to be held on the Gulf Coast, under the auspices of the Civilian Defense, directed by Dr. J. W. Davenport of the Baptist Hospital of New Orleans, 30 volunteer donors gave their blood for this worthy cause.

The Emergency Medical Field Units met regularly at the Hospital this year.

A Second Blood Plasma Clinic under the direction of Civilian Defense was held and there were 37 blood donors.

On May 12th, Florence Nightingale's birthday, we had open house, and our annual Hospital Shower received 300 articles.

The Superintendent of the Hospital, Mrs. C. E. Craft, gave training to fourteen Home Nursing Class members of the Red Cross chapter of Bay St. Louis.

The President of the Circle is also president of the Service Mens Recreation Council and 50 members have done good work.

The Superintendent of the local hospital is Local Nurse Deputy. The operating room has been repainted, and also the front of the hospital.

A Flying Fortress is to America's air fleet what heavy artillery is to the Army. This gigantic four-engine bomber, equipped with heavy cannon, carries about three tons of bombs and reaches a speed of about 300 miles an hour.

These ships carry a crew of seven to nine men, weigh about 22½ tons, have a wing spread of 108 feet and each motor develops 1,000 horsepower. We need more of these "Flying Fortresses" to compete with the Nazi air force. You can help by investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday. "INVADERS" TO BE SHOWN AT ORTIE'S SUNDAY AND MONDAY

When the photoplay enlist the interest and active participation of three great Democratic Governments and when the mere announcement of its theme and purpose causes a clamor from actors the world over who want to be a part of it, the sturdy foundation for a cinema masterpiece has been laid. Players of stellar capacities—Laurence Oliver, Leslie Howard, Raymond Massey and Anton Walbrook—are an asset to a photoplay with so broad a scope, but never once can this photoplay be designated as a star-vehicle.

In the proud belief that this ideal has been achieved, Columbia Pictures is presenting "The Invaders" at Ortie's Theatre on Sunday and Monday, a photoplay as timely as today's headlines, as pertinent as today's editorials, as dynamic as today's news-dispatches.

Its physical scope alone is tremendous. It is one of the most expensive, most elaborate photoplays ever to be produced. The British Empire aspires and the Dominion of Canada were active participants. President Roosevelt himself assured the cooperation of the United States Government and our customs officials at the Niagara Bridge contributed one of the most pertinent sequences to the film. A location trip of more than 5000 miles—most of it over Canada's vastness—was required before the final episode was filmed.

Each of the distinguished stars of the international stage and screen is fitted into "The Invaders" by what might be called "superior type-casting." Against this formidable array of masculine talent appears an 18-year-old ingenue of the London stage and screen Glynis Johns, unknown to American audiences, but Michael Powell, who conceived and directed "The Invaders" calls her "one of the most efficient actresses in the world."

At each turn of the plot, the Nazi fugitives are betrayed by their own ideology. Their "New Order" leads them into stupid and fatal blunders.

Fertilization of pastures deficient in plant food may consist of 230 to 300 pounds of 20-percent superphosphate or its equivalent in basic slag or triple superphosphate. Lime should be applied where needed at the rate of 1000 to 3000 pounds to the acre. Barnyard manure may be applied at rate of 4 to 5 tons to the acre. Potash may be applied profitably to pastures where other feed crops respond to potash.

Applications of mineral fertilizer should be followed by light disking.

Preparation of seed bed for grasses and clovers, where land already is populated with desirable pasture plants, should consist of disking just enough to level the old crop rows.

This, while it may do some damage to useful plants, incorporated minerals applied into soil and leaves sufficient loose soil for light cover of grass and clover seed. For areas with few or no desirable pasture plants, prepare land as for common broadcast crops, incorporating minerals during preparation. Plant only when seed bed becomes firm. Soil may be firm by rolling or culticating, and seed may be covered lightly with cultipacker, roller, brush drag or section harrow, preferably by cultipacker or roller, however. Prepare seed bed so that mower can be operated successfully.

Seed mixture recommended for slightly acid soils are: Dallis grass, 12 pounds; White Dutch Clover, 3 pounds; and common lespedeza, 3 pounds. On Acid, non-fertile upland and valley soils and low, sandy, non-fertile soils the seed mixture recommended is: Dallis Grass, 12 pounds; yellow hop clover, 2 pounds; common lespedeza, 8 pounds; and white Dutch clover, 1 pound.

Fall Truck Crops

One of the most outstanding fall truck crops in the county can be seen at Mr. James L. Lee's home near Lumberton. When Mr. Lee has approximately 15 acres of shipping beans. The yield of which may be as high as the same ground would yield in a spring crop, but the quality is better and the price he will receive for the beans will off-set the difference in yield.

The fifteen acres of beans will help raise this county's quota of "Food for Freedom" produced, and also proves another profitable crop for that section of the county.

Farmers are urged to save all manure available on the farm in order to supply part of the needed nitrogen for next year's crops. In addition to nitrogen manure also supplies phosphorus, potash and organic matter or humus. These are important in producing optimum yields of crops. Applications of 5 tons of manure to the acre in southern research have resulted in approximate averages of 1700 pounds of seed cotton, and 40 bushels of corn to the acre.

Manure should be kept in bins or pits from which a minimum of liquid manure will be lost. Add about 100 pounds of superphosphate to the ton of manure along as the manure is accumulated and stored. This amount is necessary to prevent the nitrogen in the manure from escaping in the form of ammonia.

Artificial manure may be composted on the farm by using leaves, waste hay, grass or other materials mixed with fertilizer materials to hasten the decomposition. This should be made up in the fall so that it will be well rotted by spring. Pens for conserving manure should be made by using poles, scrap lumber or other available material. A pen 10 by 10 feet and 6 feet high will hold about 1 ton of dry leaves, hay or grass. This will make about 2 1/2 tons of compost for general farm crops. The pen should be built in the open to permit rain to fall on it.

In filling the pen use about 200 pounds of mixed fertilizer such as 4-8-8 and about 100 pounds of ground limestone to a ton of the leaves or grass; or use 100 pounds of sulphate of ammonia, or nitrate of soda and 200 pounds basic slag. Apply sulphate of ammonia and slag separately.

Start the pen by putting down a layer of leaves, old grass or hay about 12 inches deep and sprinkle a suitable amount of the fertilizer materials over the layer. Then apply a thin layer of manure to inoculate the compost with organisms which help the pile to decay. Repeat this procedure along until the pen is filled.

Improve Pastures

Productive pastures are essential to the economical production and maintenance of livestock. They provide the best, cheapest and most complete single sources of nutrients during most months of the year. Pastures serve as a cover and are most effective in preventing erosion and conserving fertility.

Certain proved practices should be followed to ensure a successful pasture. Land selected should be fertile and well drained. Pastures for milk cows and work stock should be convenient to the barn. Water should be always accessible, adequate and wholesome. Brush should be removed from pasture but shade should be ample. Terracing should conserve moisture as well as soil. Bottom lands should have adequate drainage.

Fertilization of pastures deficient in plant food may consist of 230 to 300 pounds of 20-percent superphosphate or its equivalent in basic slag or triple superphosphate. Lime should be applied where needed at the rate of 1000 to 3000 pounds to the acre. Barnyard manure may be applied at rate of 4 to 5 tons to the acre. Potash may be applied profitably to pastures where other feed crops respond to potash.

A LESSON IN CONSERVATION

...LEARNED LONG AGO

Eyes such as these, bravely looking into the future, hold the hope of tomorrow. Long years ago we learned that they could be conserved, that the strain of "visual" living could be softened by proper light.

Nearly two decades of "light conditioning" activities by this company have been devoted to conserving precious eyesight. The gains of those decades serve in the mature activities of today which are so vital to victory.

They also helped bring about lighting installations which are now helping save the vision of boys and girls in these trying times.

Good lighting is good conservation.

A Pledge For Americans

I am a citizen of a country where man is born of freedom. I am proud of it.

I take pride in being a free citizen in a free society, but I know that the priceless blessing of liberty is not a heritage, but is won afresh or lost by each generation.

I therefore pledge myself to all those Americans who have gone before me and to all those who will come after me to do my part and to pass on this Freedom.

I will listen to no idle rumors. I will repeat no destructive gossip. I will support loyally and in friendship all the United Nations who are joined with us in this righteous compact to defeat the Axis Powers. I know my country must win this war, and I will conduct myself as if I alone bore the responsibility for the victory of Democracy. In the words of a soldier of other days, "I will endure, I will fight cheerfully and do my utmost—as if the issue of the struggle depended on me alone."

I dedicate myself to this cause. I swear that to win it, I will make any sacrifice, however great, and perform any task, however humble. So help me, God!

—Mrs. F. J. Nelson, in charge of a study course "Planning For Peace" announces the following schedule: November 3-6, 9, to 11 a. m. First lesson Mrs. C. C. Clark; second lesson Mrs. C. C. McDonald; third lesson, Mrs. W. W. James and Mrs. Ellison; fourth lesson Mrs. C. M. Shipp and Mrs. T. T. Robin. Anyone interested will be welcome to attend this course.

Former County Teacher Engaged in War Production Work

MISS MAUD LADNER

That the women of Hancock County have taken seriously the problem of replacing the men in the plant producing war equipment is evidenced by the fact several women from this locality have taken training at the War Production Training School at Gulfport and have accepted positions. Prominent among these is Miss Maud Ladner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon T. Ladner of the Bayou LaCrosse community, a former teacher in the schools of the County who has accepted a position as Women's Coordinator at the Ingalls Shipbuilding Plant at Pascagoula, and we reproduce herewith an article in full which appeared in the "Ingalls News" the company publication at Pascagoula, Miss.

Women workers coming to Ingalls can be sure that they will be well looked after. Already on the job as Women's Coordinator is Maud Ladner, of Bay St. Louis, who is making the rounds of all the shops and departments, meeting the foremen and generally laying the groundwork for a full sized program of counsel and assistance to the women daily moving into their places on the Ingalls production front in increasing numbers.

Rest room and eating facilities have already been surveyed by Miss Ladner, and while the yard heretofore has not been equipped for women, facilities have now been installed at numerous parts of the yard. Miss Ladner is recommending, however, that women workers bring their own lunches, where possible, as eating facilities in and near the yard are taxed each day by the large number of persons attempting to be served.

Safety is one of the most important problems to be tackled by Miss Ladner. The clothing worn by women workers is especially under survey. Low heeled shoes and sensible clothing, free from feminine fripperies, are requested of all women workers.

"The women have cooperated splendidly," says Miss Ladner, "but many have to be reminded that conditions in the yard are different from those at home or in the office and special clothing is necessary both for comfort and safety."

Miss Ladner herself, attractively attired in slacks and shoes that will permit much walking about the yard is practicing what she preaches. But she has had experience in the type of work carried on here, having taken both the welding and the sheet-metal courses at the Gulfport War Production Training School. Previously she spent 8 years as a member of Kiln school faculty, and is personally acquainted with many of the women now working at Ingalls.

Miss Ladner took her college work at Pearl River Junior College, Mississippi Southern College, and L. S. U. She is a first cousin of Mrs. Tony Shifalo, wife of the popular and energetic Electrical Constructors foreman.

—News has reached here of the recent death in a Mobile Hospital of Mrs. Russell, former wife of the late Rev. C. C. Evans who served as pastor of the Main Street Methodist Church here for four years. Mrs. Evans died several years ago and Mrs. Evans had re-married and was living at Waynesboro, Miss. Full particulars are not known but the Evans had a host of friends here who will be grieved at the news of her death.

—Thanks to the ingenuity of a Red Cross worker and the shipment of some "Woolworth" trinkets, American fighting men somewhere on the South Sea Islands will enjoy the benefits of nine service clubs. It seems that cash money meant absolutely nothing to the native laborers working on the project, so they wanted to do it for nothing. Consequently a barter system was worked out to their extreme satisfaction. The Red Cross worker sent to the States for the unusual pay roll and the laborers were happily paid off in jingles and jangles.

WEDDING OF MISS

BETTY SUE BOURGEOIS

Sunday afternoon was the scene of one of the pretty fall weddings, when Miss Betty Sue Bourgeois became the bride of William Bankhead Smith. The ceremony was performed at 4 p. m. at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bourgeois, in Carroll avenue amidst a profusion of flowers and fern. The bride stood on a large white rug before the mantle in the living room of the home, where a huge fern stood between tall white candelabras filled with white gladioli and white dahlias, and here Rev. W. S. Allen of the First Baptist Church performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was radiantly beautiful in a fall model, afternoon gown of sapphire blue chiffon velvet worn with wine accessories and a shoulder corsage of gardenias and stephanotis. She had as her only attendant Miss Aileen Burch, of Tupelo, Miss., who wore a two-piece fall model of Fuschia Chiffon velvet with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mr. Smith had as his best man Kenneth Bourgeois, brother of the bride. Miss Evelyn Smith acted as interpreter.

Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett T. Smith, Sr. of West Point, Miss., and is a close relative of Senator Bankhead. Both he and the bride are graduates of the Mississippi School for the deaf at Jackson.

In the dining room the bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and a centerpiece of fern and Rosa Montana. The decorations were completed here with pink dahlias arranged in large bowls throughout the room, and here the bride cut her three-tiered wedding cake.

Serving punch from crystal punch bowls placed at either end of the table were Mrs. William Douglas Bourgeois and Mrs. L. A. Rogers, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Bourgeois wore black sheer crepe and Mrs. Rogers black chiffon.

Mrs. Dan Bourgeois, mother of the bride was looking lovely in a gown of navy sheer and a shoulder corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted in receiving by her sister, Mrs. E. Swoboda, of Meridian, who wore crepe with a corsage of salmon dahlias; Mrs. Hugh Bourgeois of Gulfport, aunt of the bride, wearing navy sheer and blue lace and corsage of pink blossoms; and Mrs. Charles A. Breath in a navy crepe ensemble.

The guest list for the wedding and reception was confined to the families of the two contracting parties and a few close relatives. Those from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Magee, Mrs. L. N. Forney and the Misses Forney of Picayune; Lieutenant Jim Hoffman of Biloxi; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bourgeois of Gulfport; Mr. and Mrs. Roland Meyer, Mrs. Granville Alpha of New Orleans; Mrs. Everett Dellen of Atlanta, house guest of Mrs. L. A. Jr., Mary Alice Heitzmann, Lyndol Rogers; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Chadwick, Miss Emelda Chadwick of Wave-
